A Lancaster man was hit and killed while walking Tuesday night.

Ryan Stevens, 34, died March 27 after a car hit him on Woodland Drive in Lancaster.

The driver of the vehicle stopped to render aid and call 911, according to a release from Lancaster County Coroner Karla Deese.

The pedestrian was transported to MUSC Health — Lancaster Medical Center, where he succumbed to his injuries, the release said.

Deputy Coroners Lynette Walker and Arntearreus Richardson responded to MUSC Health — Lancaster in reference to a pedestrian struck by a vehicle.

The incident is being investigated by Lancaster Police Department and the County Coroner's Office.

No further details are available at this time.
